

Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world.
--Nelson Mandela

Congratulations DMGS Graduates!

I am so proud of all you accomplished by completing your master's degrees while also working in the national security field and participating in professional development activities that enhanced your studies and helped you to build valuable networks.

It has been my great privilege to work with all of you during the past two years and I look forward to staying in touch and seeing how your careers develop.

I know you will change the world!

Jackie
